Greater Time Spent with Ex-Partner Following Divorce Corresponds with Poor Sleep Efficiency in Individuals High in Attachment Anxiety

Figure 1. For adults high in attachment anxiety, greater time spent with their ex-partner is associated with poor sleep efficiency (percentage of time spent asleep while in bed).